CIH charter for housing

Repairs: CIH charter for housing

The CIH repairs charter is a flexible framework that helps you identify what outcomes a good quality repairs service can deliver. It is not intended to be a regulatory tool but can be used as a basis for internal challenge - through tenant scrutiny, peer or independent review, for example.

The charter focuses on the delivery of responsive repairs. It does not cover voids, programmed improvements, or wider asset management functions. However, the underlying principles may be adapted to cover these areas.

The charter includes a set of commitments which are underpinned by a range of outcomes - together, the commitments and outcomes provide a framework against which organisations can assess where they are now and where they aspire to be. By signing up to this charter, you are making a public commitment to deliver high quality repairs services which are clearly focused on outcomes for tenants.

There are six core principles underpinning the repairs charter for housing:

1. Sign up is voluntary and based on self assessment
2. It has been developed using sector expertise
3. It is flexible and can be tailored to suit the outcomes that matter to you and your tenants
4. It is focused on outcomes, not on processes
5. It drives sector-led improvement
6. It complements existing frameworks or initiatives

Signing up to the charter

Because the housing sector is diverse, priorities will vary and organisations need room to innovate, be creative and respond to individual and local needs. The repairs charter is intended to be a framework which can be adapted to local circumstances and priorities and built on as required.

Once you have signed up to the charter you can:

- Share practice and learn from others: CIH will support a free, open-access website and participating organisations will be invited to upload practice examples that align to the charter principles. This reflects the principles of transparency and sector-wide shared learning that underpin the charter.
- Join our network: organisations that sign up to the repairs charter can join our free repairs online network, where charter signatories can share ideas, expertise and knowledge to drive improvements in repairs across the housing sector.
